This Week

January 22, this day in 1943 the fastest temperature change recorded in history occurred in Spearfish, South Dakota, USA. Due to a Chinook wind the temperature increased from -20°C to 7°C in the span of two minutes starting at 7:30am. When the Chinook died, the temperature plunged down to -20°C again, caused glass windows to crack and windshields to instantly frost over.

My son was chewing on electrical cords so I had to ground him. He's doing better currently and conducting himself properly.

Thumbs up to the business's who make sure there is salt on their sidewalks so we don't slip. Hard to wear ice picks when there is no snow & the black ice is hard to see, especially for us late night shoppers.

Thumbs down to the dude in the white truck who blocked me in at BC Eagle. Thankfully it wasn't for long...you were only getting take out but still...I'm sure you seen my back up lights on as I feel like I almost hit you. Must have been starving hey.

Fun Facts

In a groundbreaking discovery last year in South America, scientists have identified an egg-laying species of a worm-like amphibian (Siphonops annulatus) that nourishes its young with a lipid-rich, milk-like substance. The babies don't exactly nurse like mammals, but they do stimulate the secretion of this milk-like substance by making high-pitched clicking noises.

Peace in Space

2025 is the 50th anniversary of the Apollo-Soyuz Test Project, the first international partnership between the American and Soviet space programs. Before the two Cold War rivals first met in orbit, such a partnership seemed unlikely, being preceded by 30 years of sabre-rattling, nuclear threat and proxy wars between the two nations.

On July 15, 1975, an Apollo spacecraft launched carrying a crew of three astronauts (Slayton, Stafford and Brand) and docked two days later with a Soyuz spacecraft and its crew of two cosmonauts, Leonov and Kubasov. During nearly two days of joint activities, the quintet carried out five experiments and exchanged commemorative items. The astronauts even played the cosmonauts the song "Why Can't We Be Friends?", which was pretty hot in the States at the time. The successful Apollo-Soyuz Test Project paved the way for future international partnerships.
